DANI DECLARES

Weekly Operations Planner

A practical sales-to-cash tracker for service businesses

Fillable on screen. Print-ready. Nine worksheets, a worked week and a monthly roll-up.

Edition 2 | We handle the execution.

How to use this planner

A 15-minute daily rhythm and one weekly review

Print a set of pages for each week, or type into the fields on screen and save a copy per week. The companion spreadsheet totals your numbers and shows your rates automatically.

THE WEEKLY RHYTHM

Monday (30 min): set the cash focus, list the jobs booked, pick your three priorities.
Every working day (15 min): log new inquiries, send quotes, follow up where you have permission, record payments received.
Friday (30 min): complete the weekly performance review and plan next week.

Worked example (illustration only: not a target, price list or earnings claim)

12 inquiries came in; 8 were a fit for your services; 5 quotes went out; 3 were accepted.
Quote win rate: 3 / 5 = 60 percent. Invoiced this week: $950. Collected this week: $780.
Collection rate: 780 / 950 = 82 percent. $170 is outstanding and goes on the follow-up list.
Average accepted job: $950 / 3 = $316.67. Count money received, not promises or leads.

Ground rules

- [ ] Count cash actually received, never leads or verbal yeses
- [ ] Contact people only where you have their permission
- [ ] Write the agreed scope down before work starts
- [ ] No extra work or charges until the customer approves in writing
- [ ] Record who did the work and what proof you have

1. Weekly cash scoreboard

Track money actually received, not just leads or promises

Week of	Collection target for the week ($)	Collected so far ($)

Invoiced this week ($)	Invoices awaiting payment ($)	Cash needed for costs this week ($)

Day	Received from	Amount ($)	Method	Invoice / job #

By hand

Collection rate = collected / invoiced x 100. Gap to target = target - collected.
If the gap is positive on Wednesday, review the Invoices & collections sheet first.

Cash focus for the week (one sentence)

2. Lead and follow-up tracker

Record only contacts with appropriate outreach permission

Highest-priority buyer this week

Next follow-up step and date

Name / business	Source	OK to contact?	Last touch	Next step	Date

Permission first

Follow up only with people who asked for contact or agreed to it. Note do-not-contact requests here and honor them. A comment, like or follow is interest in your page, not a request to be sold to.

3. Quote tracker

Every quote gets a number, a scope and a follow-up date

Quote #	Customer	Service / package	Price ($)	Sent	Status	Decide by

Before you send a quote

- ☐ Scope written: what is included and what is not
- ☐ Price covers labor, supplies, travel and your margin target
- ☐ Deposit and payment terms stated
- ☐ Date, time window and who will do the work confirmed
- ☐ Change process stated: extras need written approval and are priced separately

4. Quote-to-delivery checklist

Confirm scope, price, labor time and who will do the work before you start

Service or package

Scope confirmed by (name, date)

Deposit / payment status

Job identifier

Booking

- [ ] Customer approved scope and price in writing
- [ ] Deposit or payment arrangement confirmed
- [ ] Date and time window on the calendar
- [ ] Access method agreed (no permanent codes written here)

Preparation

- [ ] Supplies and equipment listed and packed
- [ ] Helper or provider assigned and briefed
- [ ] Photo permission asked and recorded
- [ ] Reminder sent where the customer agreed to messages

Day of service

- [ ] Arrival confirmed
- [ ] Work matches the written scope
- [ ] Anything new documented and approved before doing it
- [ ] Final walkthrough offered

5. Weekly job board

See the whole week at a glance

Day	Job / customer	Time	Assigned to	Status

Status ideas: booked, confirmed, in progress, done, QA passed, invoiced, paid.

6. Fulfillment and quality review

Confirm who did the work, record proof and follow up

Job identifier

Completed by

Date completed

QA result and by whom

Customer follow-up permission (yes / no)

Quality check

- [ ] Every item in the written scope done
- [ ] Photos or other proof saved, with permission
- [ ] Exceptions and incomplete items disclosed
- [ ] Customer walkthrough or confirmation received

Issues found and how they were fixed

Customer feedback (their words, only if they agreed to share)

7. Invoices and collections

Get paid for finished work, and see cash at risk

Invoice #	Customer	Amount ($)	Sent	Due	Paid on	Notes

Collections routine

Day 0: send the invoice. Day before due: friendly reminder (if the customer agreed to messages).
Past due: call once, record what was said, and agree a date. Escalate only through your own written terms.

Total outstanding ($)

Oldest unpaid (days)

8. Weekly performance review

Count qualified inquiries, quotes, collections and completed jobs

Week of

Qualified inquiries

Quotes sent

Quotes accepted

Payments collected ($)

Completed jobs that passed your quality check

Quote win rate % (accepted / sent x 100)

Collection rate % (collected / invoiced x 100)

What worked this week

What to change

Top three priorities for next week

9. Monthly roll-up

Four weeks on one page

Measure	Week 1	Week 2	Week 3	Week 4	Month

Measures to enter: qualified inquiries, quotes sent, quotes accepted, invoiced ($), collected ($), jobs passing QA, hours worked, supplies cost ($), travel cost ($).

Read your month

Win rate low? Tighten who you quote and how clearly you state scope.
Collection rate low? Shorten invoice time and add a deposit.
Hours high for the money? Re-price the next quote using actual hours.
